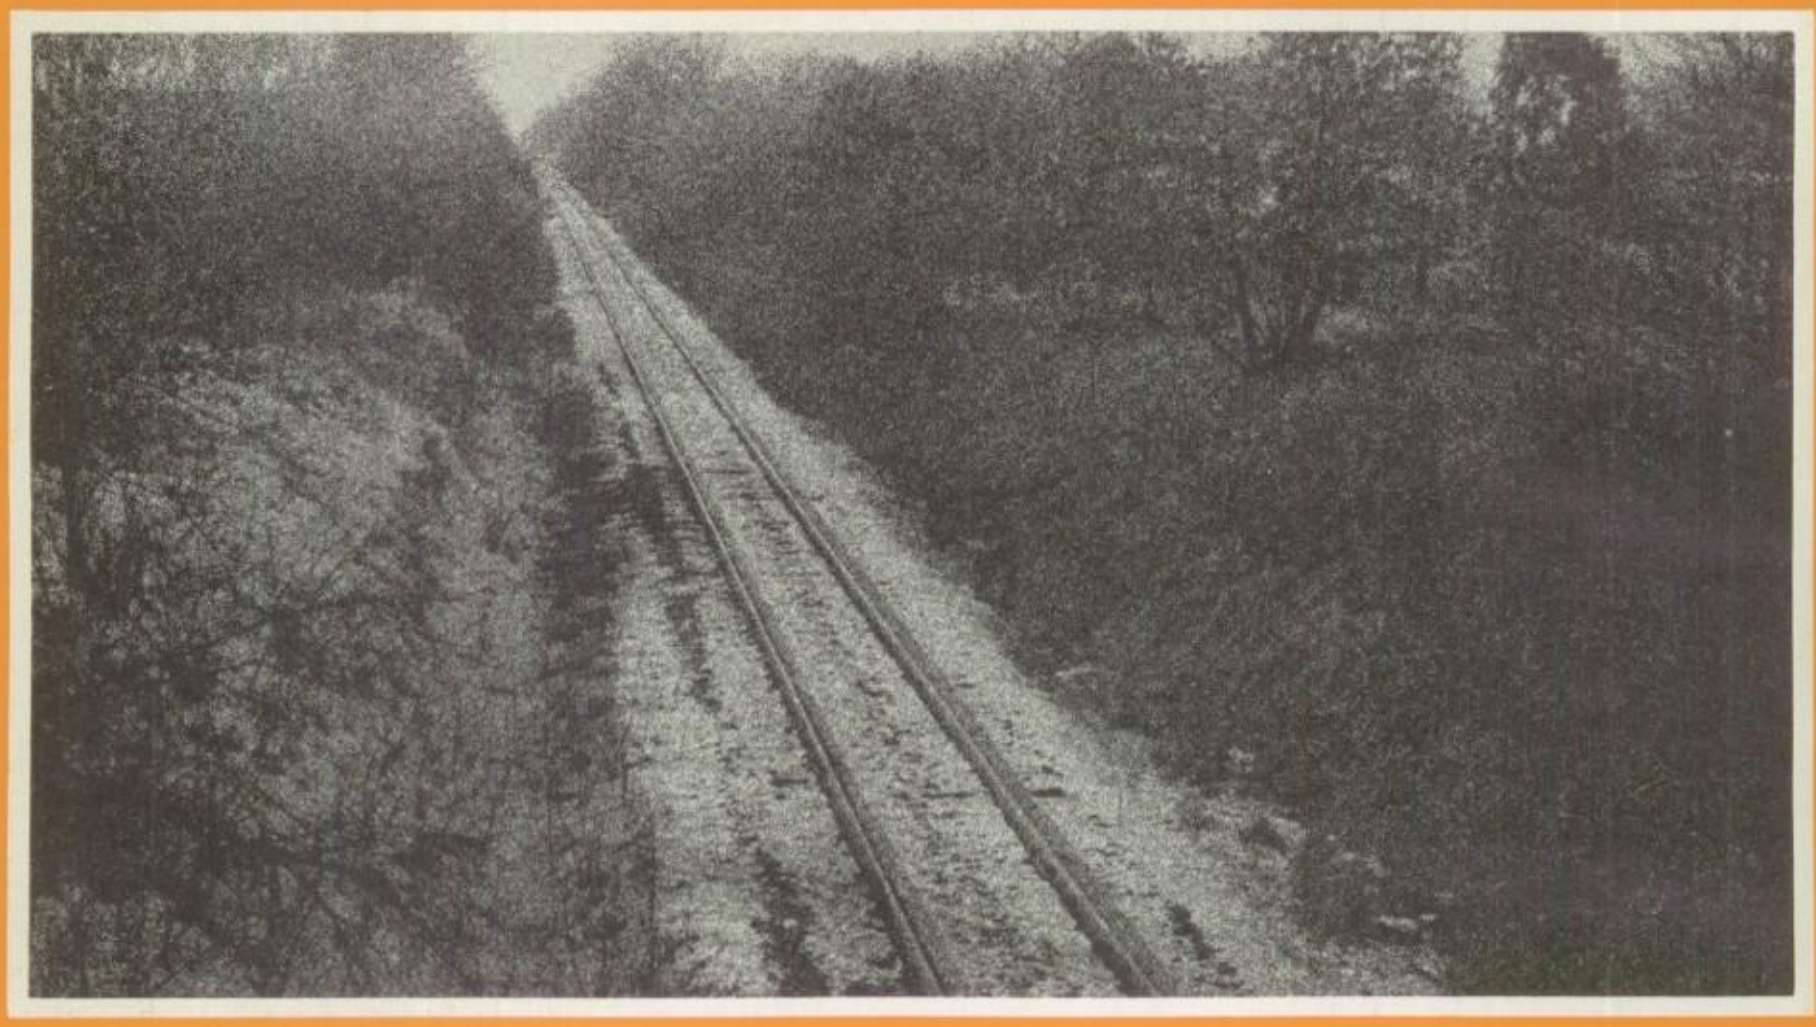
"The Need To Be"



The Need To Be

To fulfill the need to be who I am in this world is all I ask
I can't pretend to be something I'm not
And I won't wear a mask
You touched my face with love in your eyes
But will you touch my heart with the understanding that it takes to realize I Just can't play a part.

There's the need to be true to myself and make my own mistakes
And not to lean too hard on someone else no matter what it takes
So if you're sure it's love just be sure it's love
For this thing called me
Cause I am who I am and I have the need to be.

I'm not fool enough to ever think that I could be the master of my fate
But it's up to me to choose my roads in life
Rocky may well be the ones I take
There's the need to be something more than just a reflection of a man
I can't survive in someone's shadow
I need my own spot to stand.

—Jim Weatherly

We are the hollow men
We are the stuffed men
Leaning together
Headpiece filled with straw. Alas!
Our dried voices, when
We whisper together
Are quiet and meaningless
As wind in dry grass
Or rat's feet over broken glass
In our dry cellar.
—T.S. Elliot, The Hollow Men

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain'd;
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition;
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins;
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God;
Not one is dissatisfied—not one is demented with the
mania of owning things;
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived
thousands of years ago;
Not one is respectable or industrious over the whole earth.

—Walt Whitman

I absolutely flatly deny that I am a soul,
or a body, or mind, or an intelligence,
or a brain, or a nervous system,
or a bunch of glands,
or any of the rest of these bits of me.
The whole is greater than the part.
And therefore, I, who am man alive,
am greater than my soul,
or spirit, or body, or mind,
or consciousness, or anything else
that is merely part of me,
I am a man, and alive.

—D.H. Lawrence

Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity,
When I give, I give myself.
—Walt Whitman

I sit and lookout upon all the sorrows of the world,
and upon all oppression and shame,
I secret convulsive sobs from young men at anguish with themselves, remorseful after deeds done,
I see in low life the mother misused by her children,
dying, neglected, gaunt, desperate,
I see the wife misused by her husband, I see the treacherous seducer of young women,
I mark the ranklings of jealousy and requited love
attempted to be hid, I see these sights on earth,
I workings of battle, pestilence, tyranny, I see martyrs and prisoners,
I observe a famine at sea, I observe the sailors casting lots who shall be kill'd to preserve the lives of the rest,
I observe the slights and degradations cast by arrogant persons upon laborers, the poor, and upon negroes, and the like;
All these—all the meanness and agony without end I sitting look out upon,
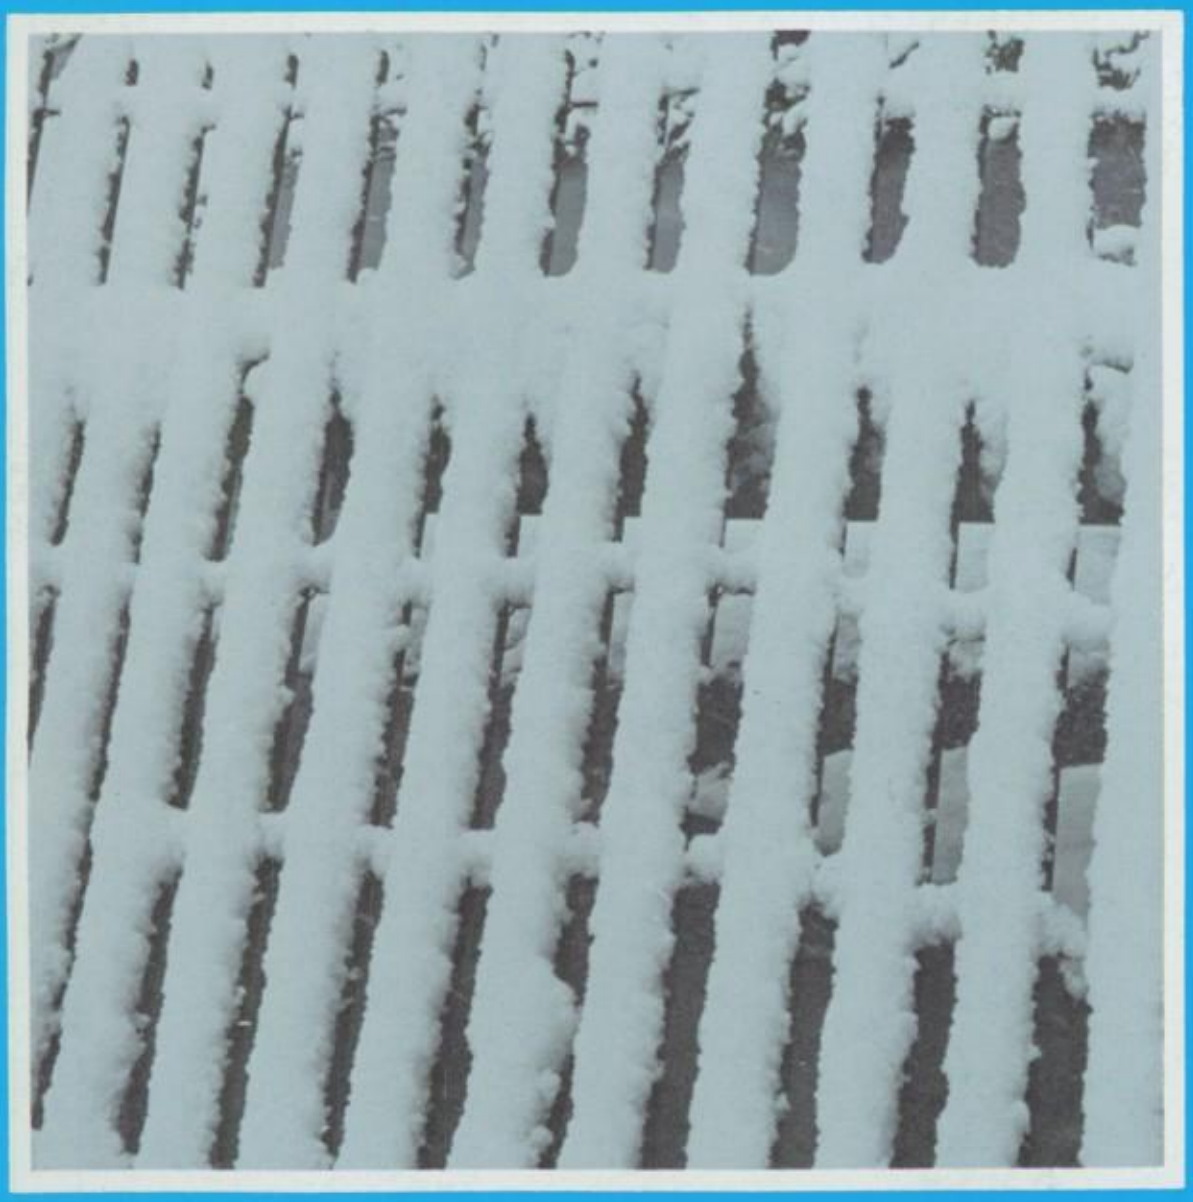
See, hear, and am silent.

—Walt Whitman



There's a land that I see
Where the children are free.
And I say it ain't far
To this land, from where we are.

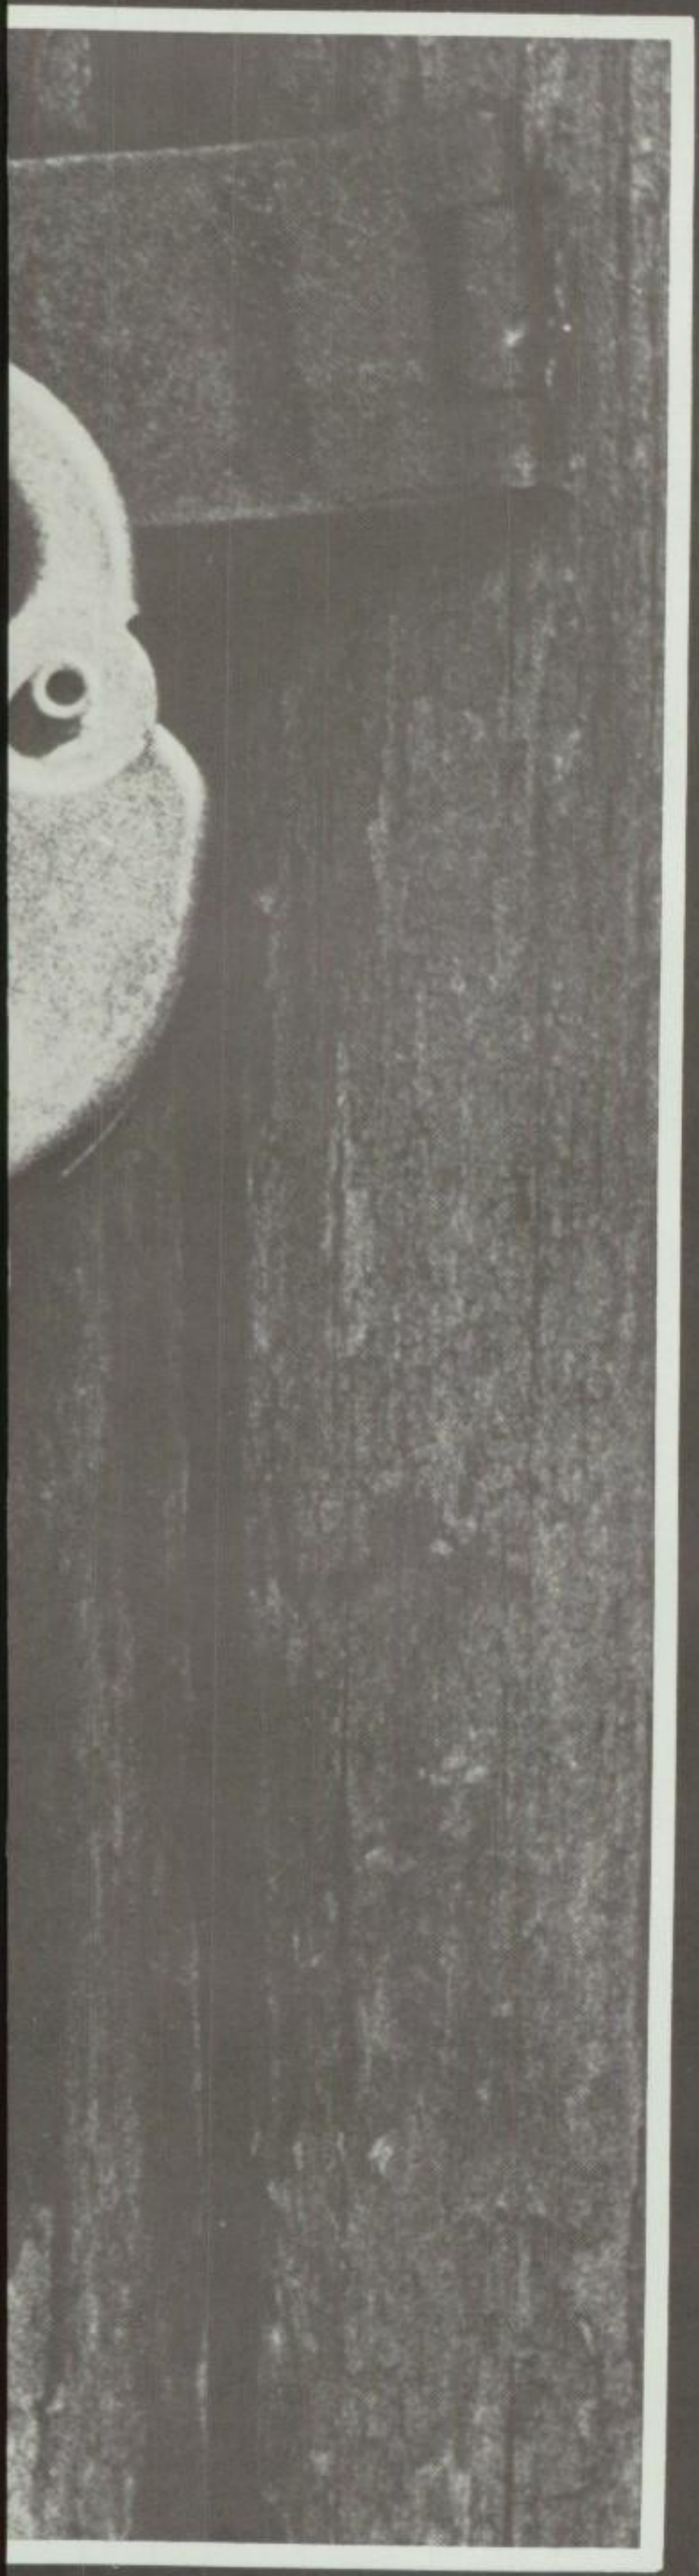
Take my hand. Come with me,
Where the children are free.
Come with me, take my hand,
And we'll live . . .

In a land
Where the river runs free–
Through the green country–
To a shining sea.

And you and me
Are free to be
You and me

I see a land, bright and clear,
And the time's coming near,
When we'll live in this land,
You and me, hand-in-hand.

Take my hand. Come along,
Lend your voice to my song.
Come along, Take my hand,
Sing a song . . .



For a land
Where the river runs free–
Through the green country–
To a shining sea–
Where the horses run free.

And you and me
Are free to be
You and me.

Every boy in this land
Grows to be his own man.
In this land, every girl
Grows to be her own woman.

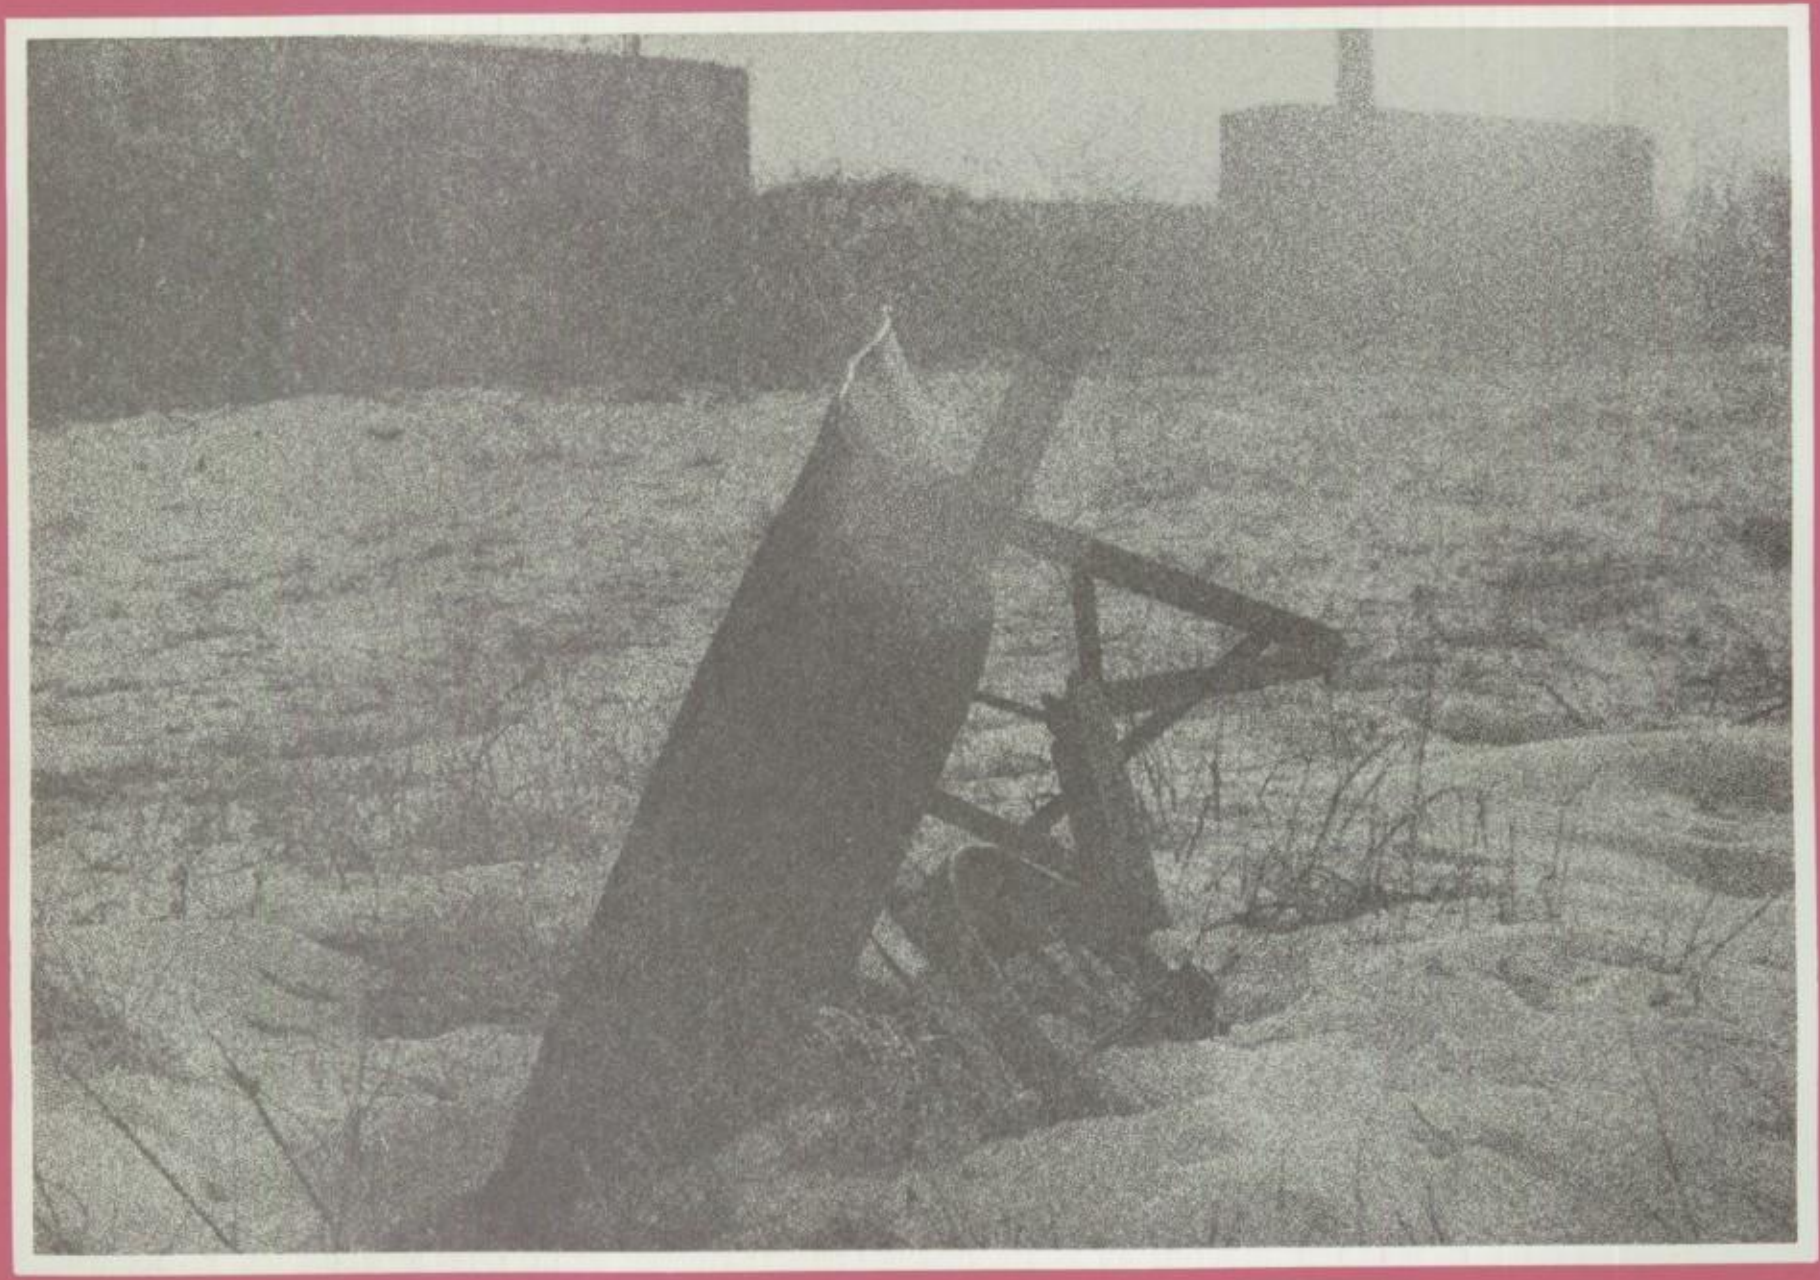
Take my hand. Come with me,
Where the children are free.
Come with me. Take my hand,
And we'll run . . .

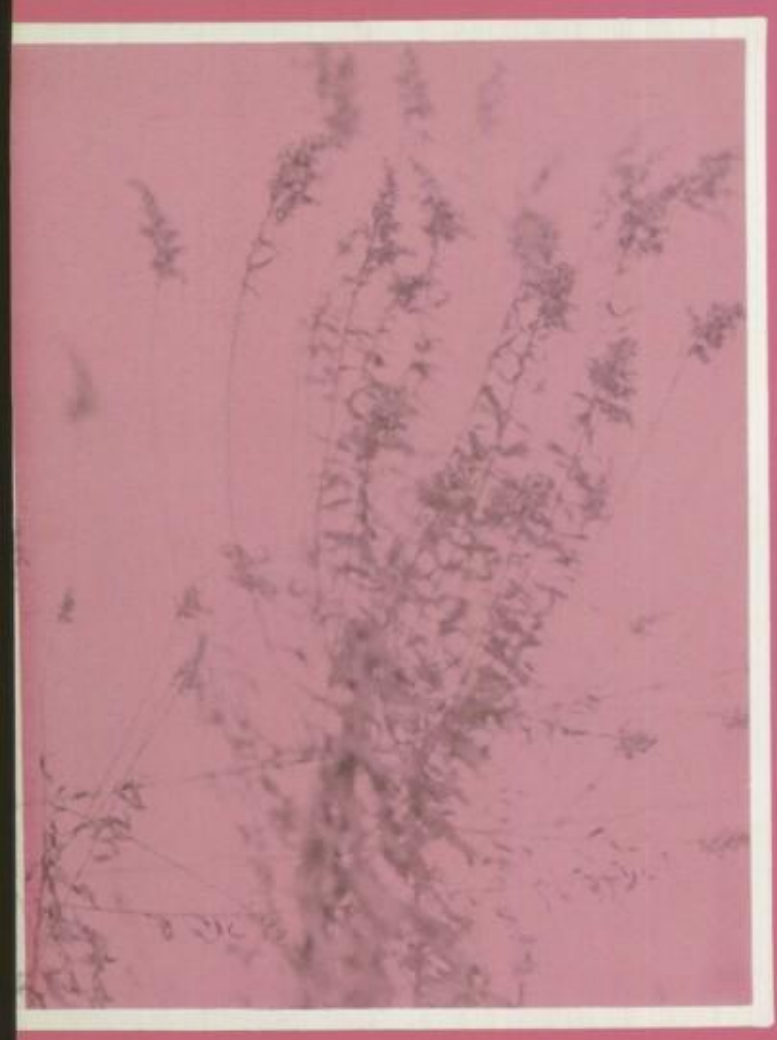
To a land
Where the river runs free–
Through the green country–
To a shining sea–
Where the horses run free–
Where the children are free.

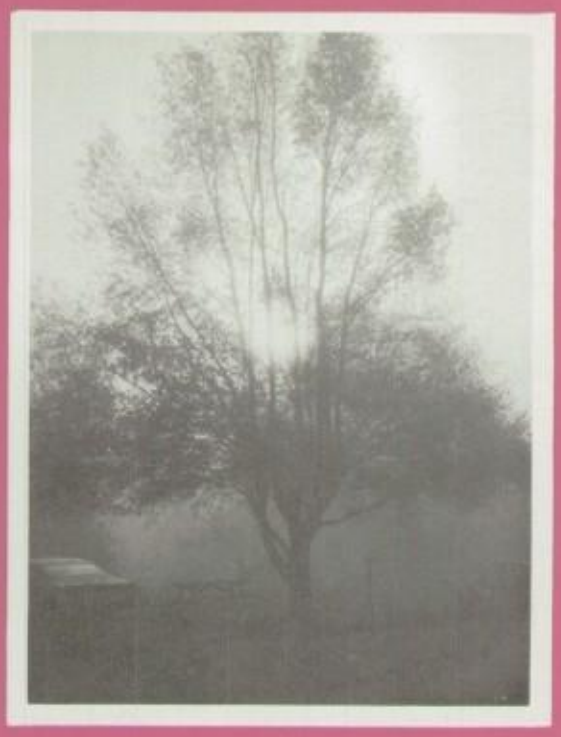
And you and me
Are free to be
You and me.

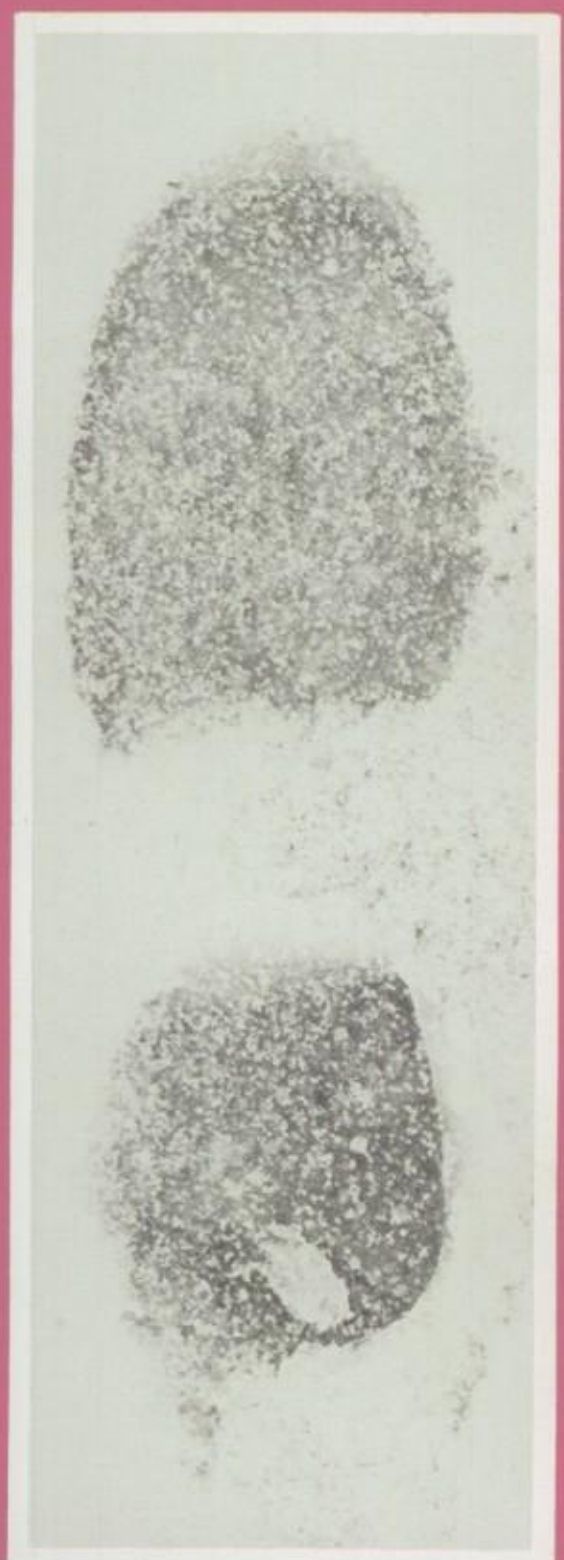
And you and me
Are free to be
You and me.

–Bruce Hart, Free to Be . . . You and Me









Everything has its season
Everything has its time
Show me a reason and I'll soon show you a rhyme
Cats fit on the windowsill
Children fit in the snow
Why do I feel I don't fit in anywhere I go?

Rivers belong where they can ramble
Eagles belong where they can fly
I've got to be where my spirit can run free
Got to find my corner of the sky.

Every man has his daydreams
Every man has his goal
People like the way dreams have
  of sticking to the soul
Thunderclouds have their lightning
Nightingales have their song
And don't you see I want my life to be something more than long?

So many men seem destined
To settle for something small
But I won't rest until I know
  I'll have it all
So don't ask where I'm going
But listen when I'm gone
And far away you'll hear me
Singing softly to the dawn.
—Stephen Schwartz, Corner of the Sky

I bequeath myself to the dirt to grow
from the grass I love,
If you want me again look for me
under your boot soles.

You will hardly know who I am or what I mean,
But I shall be good health to you nevertheless,
And filter and fibre your blood.

Failing to fetch me at first keep encouraged,
Missing me one place search another,
I stop somewhere waiting for you.
—Walt Whitman,
"I Bequeath Myself to the Dirt"

The Sun And The Moon

The Sun is filled with shining light
It blazes far and wide
The Moon reflects the sunlight back
But has no light inside.

I think I'd rather be the Sun
That shines so bold and bright
Than be the Moon, that only glows
With someone else's light.

—Elaine Laron

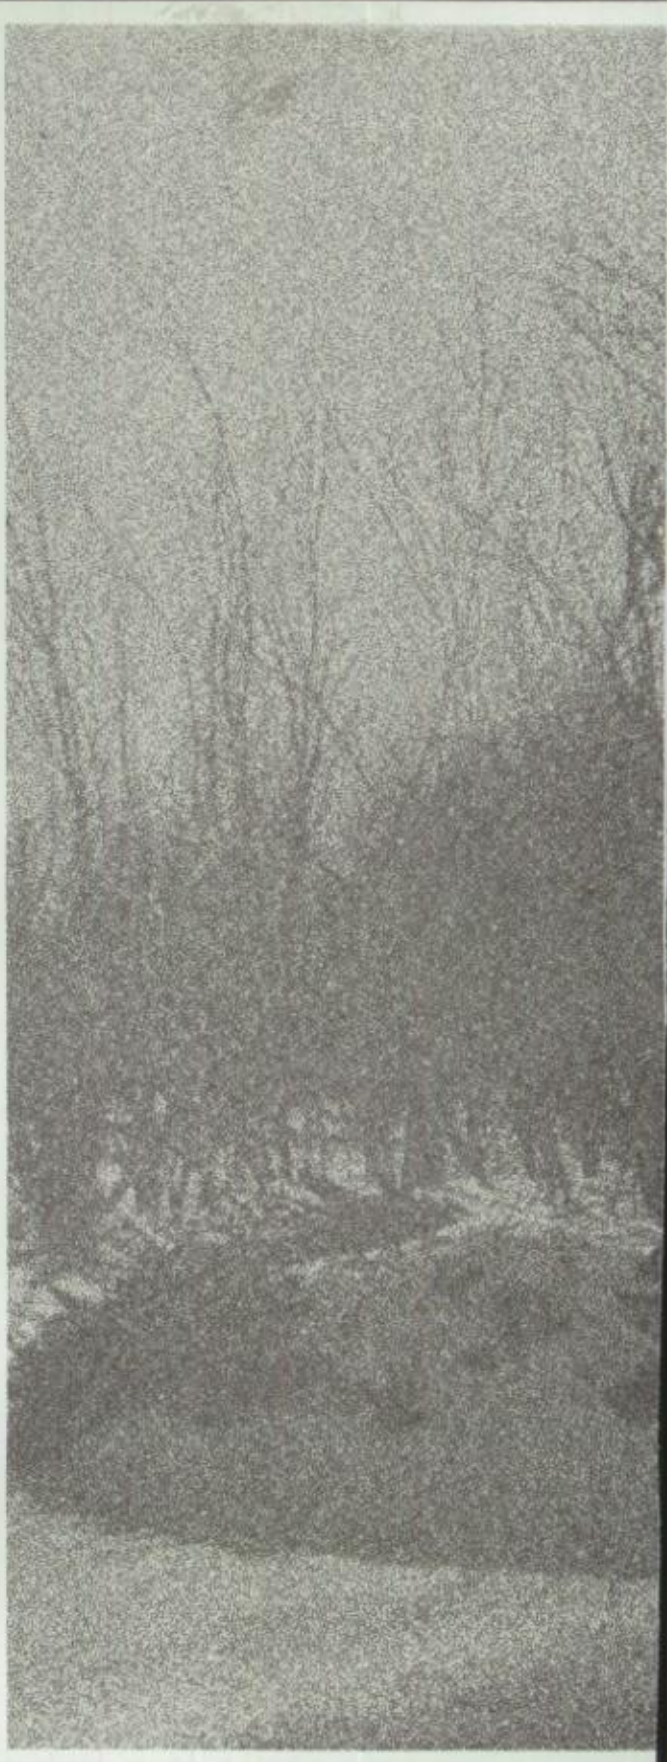
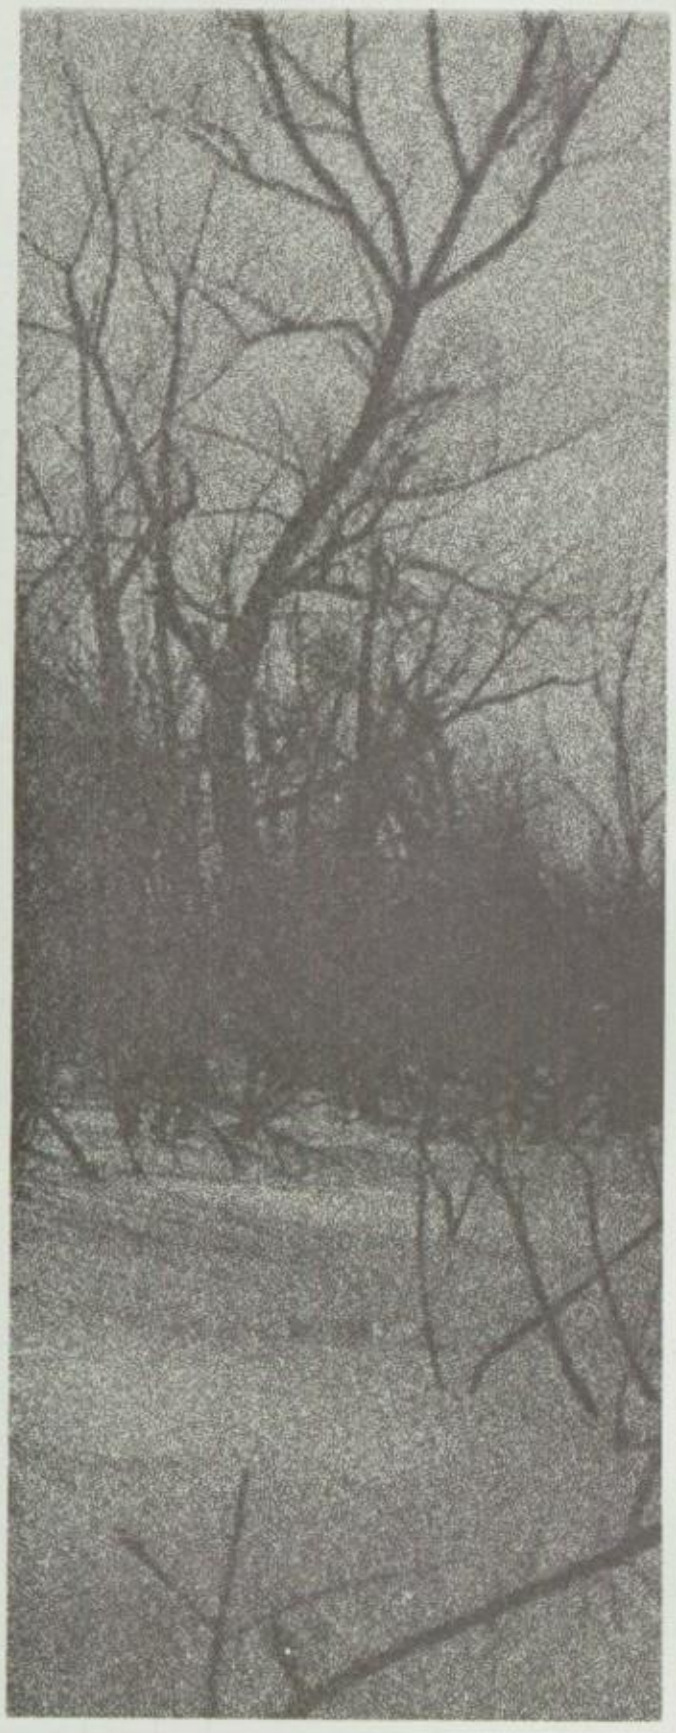
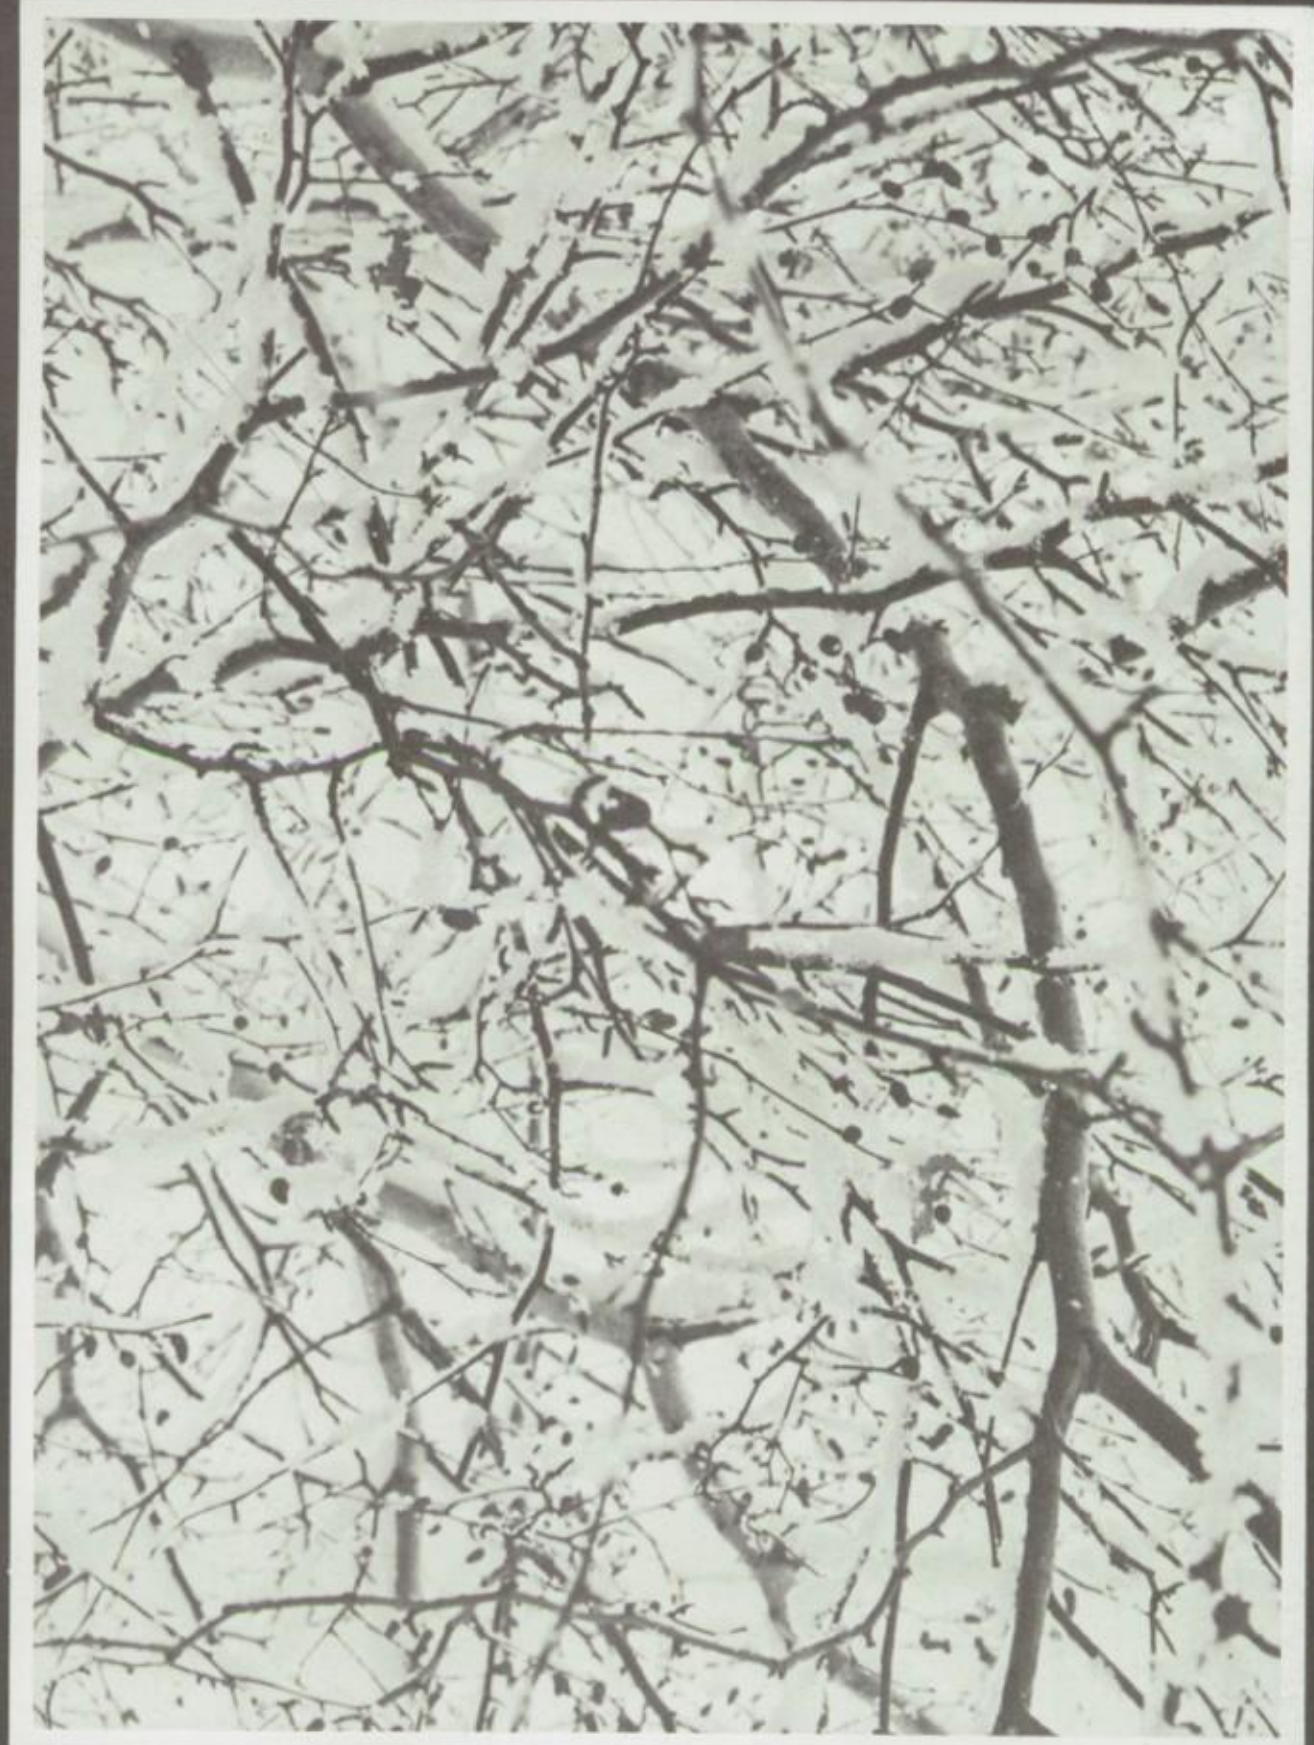
SOBRINOS DE
MAD







On April 3, 1974, our small town of Monticello was almost completely destroyed. Everyday familiar buildings no longer were. People cried for their losses yet they helped others.

Our school, only six years old, was half demolished. Looking back over the year and remembering going to school in portable classrooms, I'm sure we will appreciate our high school building more after it is repaired and we are in it again. With all of its handicaps though, we have survived.

I hate and fear science because of my convictions that, for long to come if not forever, it will be the remorseless enemy of mankind. I see it destroying all simplicity and gentleness of life, all the beauty of the world; I see it restoring barbarism under the mask of civilization; I see it darkening men's minds and hardening their hearts.

A quiet evening of study is, perhaps, to some an enviable time.
I find that my time
  is better spent in conversation with my friends.
Although books teach all that men are capable of imparting Friends bring more peace and calm to the inner workins of the heart.
Though this quiet evening of study may be productive in a feeling of work well done and knowledge gained,
Small talk with close friends brings insights into the intricacies of the most sought-after knowledge, that of the workings of a human mind.
Maybe study will get me far in this world of knowledge to gain, Buf friends and talking will bring me peace and get me further in this world of persons.

My classmates, I make a toast to us.
So many things have happened throughout the years to remember them all
And some I wouldn't want to.
But my classmates, my classmates
Where has the past gone?
Time has swallowed our laughter and our tears.
It is time we look at ourselves and all our friends.
We've changed, matured, and have grown with knowledge and experience;
But now we stand on the edge of the nest ready to spread our wings and fly toward the sun

And don't let the sun set on you.
Beat it with the courage of youth.
The strength, the trust, the closeness, and the daring that comes with youth.
Know yourself and like what you are.
Strive for what you want, if it is right to you.
Stand up for your ideas, and correct your flaws for we are the generation of the now; the hope for tomorrow.

Be just and open-minded.
Be truthful and without hate.
And above all be an individual;
For that is what we are . . . . . unique.
Unique and young.
And as we go our separate ways
To seek out the true meaning of living
Don't forget we each have the need to be.
The need to be you and me.

It was a time for memories of days and things gone by. A sweet love note, a borrowed book.
Gardinia smells and blue skies. The graduates, the Senior Prom The sun and the wind in our hair. The sight of the twirlers, the sound of the band.
Going to parties in pairs.

The days of growing up are gone,
We must start out afresh.
Some may survive, some will not,
But we will do what's best.
And as the good thoughts fill my soul and empty out my heart.
I know I'll miss my loving friends although we drift apart.

The 1975 yearbook staff has had a lot of handicaps this year. We don't think we could have made it without the help of Jerry's photography (and his dark room), The Monticello Herald Journal for the use of many photographs, and Scott Squires - an ace photographer. We wish to express our sincere gratitude to those people who have supported our efforts
